

It's Never Too Late To Find the Right Path!

Strategies for success in and after college

Did you realize that college success is much more than mastering the subject you are majoring in? In addition to good grades, engaging in research and understanding the material covered in class, college success is also dependent on how well you manage life's challenges and conflicting priorities. Utilizing strategies from the book, Creating Success in College and in Life by Skip Downing, this seminar will focus on learning how to look within for the keys to success and how to identify unique talents, gifts and abilities to find personal meaning in the path you have chosen. By finding the right course and staying on it, the next step to the professional world will be more successful and easier to sustain.
